Hood College to Host Frederick County Art Exhibit

Hood College will host an exhibit by members of the Frederick County Art Association (FCAA) in the Whitaker Campus Center Gallery Dec. 6 through Jan. 6.

"The Annual Frederick County Art Association Members Exhibition" will include dozens of objects by painters, photographers and three-dimensional artists residing in the Frederick County community. The gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily, and there will be a reception Dec. 13 from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

Since its founding in 1979, the FCAA has committed itself to encouraging growth, interest, and participation in the visual arts to its membership and the community. The nonprofit organization was formed by a small group of like-minded artists and has grown to more than 70 members, representing all aspects of the visual arts. The FCAA is responsible for the burgeoning interest in the arts throughout Frederick County by its sponsorship and presentation of exhibitions, classes, scholarships, festivals and the establishment of the Delaplaine Visual Arts Center, a grassroots-effort that was spearheaded by dedicated supporters in the 1980s. Today, the FCAA continues to develop learning and exhibition opportunities for their membership and the surrounding community. For more information about the FCAA, visit www.fcaamd.org.

The exhibition and reception are free and open to the public. For more information, contact Michelle Schulte, gallery director, at schulte@hood.edu or 301-696-3285.

Holiday Crèche Exhibit at Hood College

Approximately 100 crèches from around the world will be on display Dec. 1 through Jan. 7 in the Beneficial-Hodson Library at Hood College.

The annual exhibit is a tradition at Hood, which began when Beulah Munshower Sommer, Class of 1944, donated a portion of her extensive crèche collection to the College. She began collecting nativity scenes as a child and continued collecting them throughout her adult life as a world traveler.

She inspired a dear friend, the Rev. Richard Kukowski, who began a collection of his own and donated it to Hood College as well. Since the Beneficial-Hodson Library started the annual exhibit in 1999, others have added to the collection with donations of their own. One of the attractions of this crèche display has been the diversity of styles, cultures and artistry represented. Additions to the collection are welcome.

The exhibit will be open during the library's regular business hours, which are available online at www.hood.edu/library. This year, the exhibit will be part of Frederick County's annual "Museums by Candlelight" event Dec. 8, when the library will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

For more details about the event, visit www.visitfrederick.org/events. For more information about the exhibit, contact Mary Atwell at 301-696-3873 or atwell@hood.edu.

30th Anniversary - Notable Maryland Author Program

Celebrating 30 years encouraging Maryland writers, poets, playwrights, and authors

One year of fun through writing and playing with words

Maryland Author: Ogden Nash

Genre: Poetry - Light Verse

"I am a conscientious man, when I throw rocks at seabirds I leave no tern unstoned." Ogden Nash

Frederic Ogden Nash (1902 - 1971) Nash was born in Rye, New York and attended and then dropped out of Harvard after one year. He worked on Wall Street and then as a teacher before becoming a copywriter. In 1925, he took a job in the marketing department with Doubleday publishing house.

Throughout his life, Nash loved to rhyme. "I think in terms of rhyme, and have since I was six years old," he stated in a 1958 news interview. Nash published Hard Lines, his first collection of poems, in 1931. The book was a tremendous success allowing Nash to quit his job. He married and had two children. In 1932, Nash devoted himself to verse full-time. Ogden Nash moved to Baltimore in 1934. In the 1950s, Nash focused on writing poems for children, including the collection Girls Are Silly. One of his best known lines is: "If called by a panther / Don't anther." With his unconventional rhyming schemes, he was declared the country's best-known producer of humorous poetry. Nash died in 1971 at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Genre: Poetry - Light Verse. This type of poetry attempts to be humorous. The poems are usually brief, can be on a frivolous or serious subject, and often feature word play, including puns, adventurous rhyme, and heavy alliteration. Limericks are also light poetry.

A partial reading list includes: Everyone But Thee and Me; Girls Are Silly; Verses From 1929 On; Versus; I'm a Stranger Here Myself; Hard Lines. You can read his poems online at: www.best-poems.net/ogden_nash/index.html.

Writers Prompt - Fun With Words - Maryland Writers' Association (MWA) invites you to have fun writing light verse using up to 100 words. Because light verse can be short, you may submit up to three poems for this prompt. Pick your own frivolous topics and have fun rhyming and playing with words. Please visit www.mwawritersroundtable.org/fun-with-words, to read a sample response from this prompt, if you are unsure of how to write this. Submit your Fun With Words response to www.mwawritersroundtable.org/submit-fun-with-words by the 20th of the month and receive an MWA Fun With Words Submission Certificate. Selected prompts will be published next month.
