You're Invited to the Opening Reception of
Thomas Faison's Phase Change, Act III

Friday, October 11th, 5 pm
11 W. Patrick Street, Frederick

Over the last year, Faison has used water in its different states of matter as a vehicle to develop a broad narrative. Through a combination of sculpture and film, the instillation journeys through water, steam, and ice as it examines control, powerlessness, destruction, becoming, transformation, and hope.

Act I began with water in its liquid form. A stream simulator showed an explicit disaster, a miniature city destroyed by a river. But throughout the ruin, voices rang out in a documentary, sharing cultural, social, and political relationships within the hydrosphere.

Act II, steam, was approached its ideas more symbolically. It explored the process of re-evaluation and transformation through a video opera in which three millennials leave ruins of the city and return to nature to engage in simple acts of attentive labor. They meditated on becoming in an explicit form by watching a pot boil, steam billowing out of the top. The videos were housed in an old boat on top of the crumbled pile of brick that once held the city.

After presenting a disaster in Act I and reckoning with it in Act II, Act III, ice, examines a way forward. There is an icy, brick staircase which, rather than ending at a destination, explodes with brick hanging in the air. Complementing this path which undoes itself, is an 8mm film of kids in the water. The children build, destroy, and play, demonstrating a creative freedom as a possible answer to this grand tragedy.

Alongside the new installation, visitors will be able to revisit the video portions of Act I and II through monitors in the gallery.

Hood College News & Events

Exhibit Featuring 1980s and 1990s Objects on Display at Hood College

An art exhibition of hand-cut paper sculptures integrated with found objects from the 1980s and 1990s will be on display Aug. 29 through Oct. 20 at Hood College.

The exhibit, "Video Viscera," by South Carolina-based artist Charles Clary is a blend of intricate sculptures constructed by layering dozens of vividly-colored, hand-cut, concentric shapes with three-dimensional found objects such as old VCR tape boxes and children's toys. The exhibit, in the Hodson Gallery in the Tatem Arts Center, will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Clary's creations are the result of a deep personal tragedy-the death of his parents to smoking-related cancers in February 2013. He views the retro-pop culture items as representations of how he escaped into a realm of childhood fantasy and fiction to cope with his everyday realities. The movies and games became the surrogate parents he longed for, and provided him the means to find order in the chaos of sickness and loss. The paper sculptures, which mimic microbes or viral colonies, deteriorate the surface of the objects and grow, much like a cancer, into the interior.

Clary was born in 1980 in Morristown, Tennessee. He earned his bachelor's degree in painting from Middle Tennessee State University and his master's degree in painting from the Savannah College of Art and Design. He has shown in exhibitions across the eastern U.S. and internationally. Clary has also been featured in publications including 500 Paper Objects, Paper Works, Paper Art, Papercraft 2, PUSH: Paper, and The New Twenties. In 2016, he won the top prize at the ArtFields Competition in Lake City, South Carolina, an annual, nine-day exhibition and art competition that draws entrants from across the country. Clary currently resides in Conway, South Carolina, and is a professor at Coastal Carolina University.

The exhibition is free and open to the public. For more information, contact Michelle Schulte, gallery director, at schulte@hood.edu or 301-696-3285.

Encouraging Maryland writers, poets, playwrights, and authors to write

Notable Maryland Author

Maryland Author: Matthew A. Henson

Genre: Personal Adventure

"I was in the lead that had overshot the mark a couple of miles. We went back then and I could see that my footprints were the first at the spot"
Matthew A. Henson

Matthew Alexander Henson, (August 8, 1866 - March 9, 1955) was born on a farm in Nanjemoy, Maryland, moved to Washington, DC, became a ship's cabin boy at 12, and traveled to ports in China, Japan, Africa, and the Russian Arctic. The ship's captain took Henson under his wing and taught him to read and write. At age 25, Henson met Robert Peary and spent the next 16 years of his life with Peary on 7 Arctic expeditions learning how to reach the North Pole. On April 6, 1909, during their 8th expedition, they reached and conquered the North Pole. In that moment, Matthew Henson became the greatest Negro explorer of all time.

In 1912, Matthew Henson published his memoir, A Negro Explorer at the North Pole. In it, he described himself as a "general assistant, skilled craftsman, interpreter (he had learned an Inuit language), and laborer." In 1937, he was the first African American to be made a life member of The Explorers Club. In 1944, Henson was awarded the Peary Polar Expedition Medal and he was received at the White House by Presidents Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower. In 1947, he collaborated with author Bradley Robinson on a biography,

Dark Companion, which told more about his life. In 1988, he and his wife were re-interred at Arlington National Cemetery and in 2000, the National Geographic Society posthumously awarded Henson the Hubbard Medal.

Genre: Personal Adventure – Personal Adventure is autobiography dedicated to describing the process involved, work required, and obstacles overcome to accomplish a specific extraordinary goal, usually involving overcoming the power and strength of the natural world.

Partial reading list: A Negro Explorer at the North Pole, Dark Companion

Writers Prompt - Fun With Words - Maryland Writers' Association (MWA) invites you to have fun writing Personal Adventure. Using just 100 words, write a Personal Adventure account where your character accomplishes a significant goal in a harsh environment (water, land, air, space) after overcoming harsh obstacles.
