Leaving the wreckage of Act I, we venture back into nature. What was once sturdy has failed and crumbled. Act II proposes not reaction, but a full reevaluation. We search for a new life force, floating somewhere in a sea of collapse.

In a four channel video opera, three millennials travel and labor to turn water into steam. Enacting a contemporary ritual, they defy an old proverb, turning what is typically a means to an end into an end in and of itself. They meditate on the phase change and learn from its will.

The video is housed in a boat on a sea of brick taken from homes long gone. Laying by the boat are pages from notebooks and diaries, alongside the ritual's musical score. Moments, plans, ideas.

Through written word, visitors are invited to contribute their thoughts or experiences

Hood College News & Events

Exhibit Featuring 1980s and 1990s Objects on Display at Hood College

An art exhibition of hand-cut paper sculptures integrated with found objects from the 1980s and 1990s will be on display Aug. 29 through Oct. 20 at Hood College.

The exhibit, "Video Viscera," by South Carolina-based artist Charles Clary is a blend of intricate sculptures constructed by layering dozens of vividly-colored, hand-cut, concentric shapes with three-dimensional found objects such as old VCR tape boxes and children's toys. The exhibit, in the Hodson Gallery in the Tatem Arts Center, will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Clary's creations are the result of a deep personal tragedy—the death of his parents to smoking-related cancers in February 2013. He views the retro-pop culture items as representations of how he escaped into a realm of childhood fantasy and fiction to cope with his everyday realities. The movies and games became the surrogate parents he longed for, and provided him the means to find order in the chaos of sickness and loss. The paper sculptures, which mimic microbes or viral colonies, deteriorate the surface of the objects and grow, much like a cancer, into the interior.

Clary was born in 1980 in Morristown, Tennessee. He earned his bachelor's degree in painting from Middle Tennessee State University and his master's degree in painting from the Savannah College of Art and Design. He has shown in exhibitions across the eastern U.S. and internationally. Clary has also been featured in publications including 500 Paper Objects, Paper Works, Paper Art, Papercraft 2, PUSH: Paper, and The New Twenties. In 2016, he won the top prize at the ArtFields Competition in Lake City, South Carolina, an annual, nine-day exhibition and art competition that draws entrants from across the country. Clary currently resides in Conway, South Carolina, and is a professor at Coastal Carolina University.

The exhibition is free and open to the public. For more information, contact Michelle Schulte, gallery director, at schulte@hood.edu or 301-696-3285.

Encouraging Maryland writers, poets, playwrights, and authors to write

Notable Maryland Author

Maryland Author: Samuel Dashiell Hammett Genre: Hard-Boiled Crime

"All my characters were based on people I've known personally, or known about." Dashiell Hammett

Samuel Dashiell Hammett, (May 27, 1894 – January 10, 1961) was born on a farm in St Mary's County, Maryland and grew up in Philadelphia and Baltimore. He worked as an operative for the Pinkerton National Detective Agency from 1915 to February 1922, with time off to serve in World War I. Hammett was first published in 1922 starting the genre that was eventually labeled Hard-Boiled Crime. Authors are told to "write what you know" and Hammett lived in San Francisco and knew Pinkerton detective work. Nosy couple Nick and Nora Charles and hard-boiled private eye Sam Spade are the enduring characters Hammett created. They lived and sleuthed in the streets, sounds, and locations of San Francisco using language that was authentic to the era and work. His 1929 novel Red Harvest was selected by Time magazine as one of the 100 best English-language novels published between 1923 and 2005. He wrote his final novel in 1934, more than 25 years before his death and is widely regarded as one of the finest mystery writers of all time. A veteran of both world wars, Hammett is buried at Arlington National Cemetery.

Genre: Hard-Boiled Crime – Hard-boiled Crime is a tough, unsentimental style of American crime writing that brings an earthy realism or naturalism to the field of detective fiction. Hard-boiled fiction contains vivid, but often sordid urban backgrounds, fast-paced, slangy dialogue and graphic sex and violence.

Partial reading list: The Maltese Falcon, The Thin Man, Red Harvest, The Dain Curse.

Writers Prompt - Fun With Words - Maryland Writers' Association (MWA) invites you to have fun writing Hard-Boiled Crime. Using just 100 words, write Hard-Boiled Crime that takes place in San Francisco in 1929. Name your Private Eye, pick and include a San Francisco street and landmark, and describe the pending crime and victim. Submit your Fun With Words response to: www.marylandwriters.org/Notable\_Maryland\_Authors. You will see the "submit" button in the center of the page. We will continue to publish all responses on: www.mwawritersroundtable.org.

MWA October Workshop - Donald Maass - Emotional Craft of Fiction

The Maryland Writers Association hosts veteran literary agent and expert fiction instructor, Donald Maass, as he presents his day-long workshop on the Emotional Craft of Fiction on Saturday, October 12, 2019 from 9 AM – 5 PM at the Hilton Baltimore BWI Airport-Hotel on 1739 W Nursery Rd, Linthicum Heights, Maryland.

"Readers can simply read your novel...or they can experience it. "The Emotional Craft of Fiction" shows you how to ensure they will experience it." Donald Maass

During the Emotional Craft of Fiction workshop, Donald Maass will teach attendees how to use story to provoke a visceral and emotional experience in their readers. He will remind writers that it is the emotional struggle in the story that keeps readers engaged. He will explain how to produce, for their readers, an emotional struggle that is as involved as the struggles, discoveries, and triumphs of the characters they are reading.

Donald's workshop will cover these topics:

- emotional modes of writing
- beyond showing versus telling
- your story's emotional world
- moral stakes
- connecting the inner and outer journeys
- plot as emotional opportunities
- invoking higher emotions, symbols, and emotional language
- cascading change
- story as emotional mirror
- positive spirit and magnanimous writing

Register for this "Open to the Public" event at:
<https://marylandwriters.org/meetinginfo.php?id=433>.
$135 cost includes all sessions and a deli buffet lunch.

Donald Maass is the founder and president of the Donald Maass Literary Agency in New York and is no stranger to this topic having written three books on the subject; "Writing the Breakout Novel," "The Fire in Fiction," and "The Emotional Craft of Fiction."

TAG/The Artists Gallery

Mark Rothkopf

Michael Kraniski

Paintings and photographs with a twist is the focus of the September show at TAG/The Artists Gallery with exhibits by Mark Rothkopf and Michael Kraniski.

In his September show, "The Geometry of Greece" Marc Rothkopf takes a photographer's eye with a nod toward architectures in an exploration of various structures and landscapes in Greece. The result is an exhibition that explores more than just photography.

Michael Kraniski continues to explore the nexus of sky and landscape in his September show titled, "Storms and a little bit More." He looks at a specific landscape and the weather conditions at the time to capture the mood of the moment in his paintings.

TAG will also have a show of new work by other members of the gallery. The exhibition runs from Friday, September 6 through September 29th. Opening reception for the artists is Saturday, September 7th, from 5 to 9pm.

TAG is the premier art gallery at 216 N. Market in the heart of Frederick's downtown district.

"Chakra Animals: Discover your Connection to Wisdom of the Natural World"

Chakra Animals is intended to help a person understand their connection to the natural world rather than their separation from it. Just like animals, we humans have life-style preferences that change from person to person, and some of these preferences can be surprisingly similar to our animal brethren. Using the seven main chakras as a framework, Chakra Animals can help you understand the similarities.
