Frederick County has long been shaped by farming, food production, and rural landscapes, while the City of Frederick has emerged as a center for arts, small businesses, and cultural innovation. The Dairy Maid Building—once tied to everyday systems of nourishment and work—offers a powerful site for reflecting on how the past continues to inform the present and propels us into the future.

Artists are encouraged to develop their own themes and vision.

Proposals may be literal or abstract, historical or contemporary, symbolic or narrative.

Artists should consider how imagery, pattern, and color interact with the corrugated steel surface, using its texture to enhance depth, rhythm, and movement.
