Frederick County's Climate Voices Frederick

Frederick County is incorporating a community visual storytelling element into the Community-Wide Climate & Energy Action Plan. This initiative, called Climate Voices Frederick, is designed to uplift personal stories from across the County and City through photography and brief reflections. It's a celebration of local voices and visuals -a natural intersection of art, community, and climate action. This project aims to personalize the impacts of climate change. What are your observations? Where do you see changes in your local environment? What makes you worried- or hopeful? Help us put a face and a voice to climate action in your community by sharing your thoughts and photos!
