Black Eyed Susans: Fifty Years of Creativity in Bloom

An FAC Public Art Project in Collaboration with Artist Lusmerlin

This week, the FAC team and artist Lusmerlin placed hundreds of black-eyed Susans in front of various locations in Frederick County.

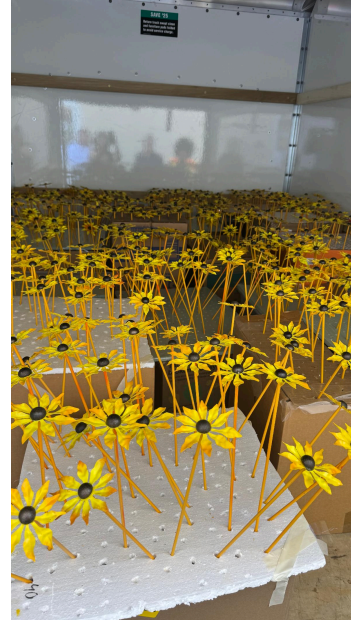

There are 500 total metal-stamped Black-Eyed Susans; 10 flowers for every year the Council has fostered creativity and cultural stewardship in Frederick.

"Through 500 metal flowers, this public artwork celebrates the miniscule, which, through repetition, creates something monumental," said Lusmerlin.

You can see the hand-made flowers in the front of Winchester Hall, the Y Ausherman Arts Center, Visitation Hotel and the Festival of the Arts.

The flowers from the installation will be available for purchase at $40 a piece

They are currently available for preorder on GiveButter.com

FAC's Literary Magazine

The Frederick Arts Council is seeking artists to submit literary works for a literary magazine publication. Short stories, poems, and essays are accepted. Artists must be Frederick residents. Submissions will be evaluated based on literary merit, creativity, and originality. Works must be original to the artist submitting the work. Artists will receive a stipend for their work up to $500.

The publication is part of FAC's Series of Anniversary Celebrations: Fifty Years of Creative Community.

Application open June 10- June 30, 2026
