FAC Art Center After Hours Recap

This past weekend the FAC Art Center hosted a series of live performances ranging from Opera and Poetry to Indie rock and Hip-Hop. Thursday, April 7th, included a night of Opera and Musical theater by artists Francesca Aguado, Nicholas Simpson, and Kat Bowman. Friday featured an indie rock lineup of local bands Alien Subculture, Dosser, and headliner Grace Vonderkuhn. Saturday evening was organized by Out40 who procured hip-hop artists DaJohn and Demetrius. Finally, Sunday featured a series of plays hosted by the Endangered Species Theatre Project, our resident organization.

FAC Awarded American Rescue Plan Funding From Frederick County!

Frederick County Executive Jan Gardner announced funding for the Frederick Arts Council to support the hard-hit arts industry and the community's economic recovery. "Public art increases tourism and drives economic growth in our main streets and across Frederick County," Executive Gardner said.

Funding will go towards supporting local artists who were negatively affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, mural projects in underserved areas that currently lack significant public art along with skills training for emerging young artists, public art installations in business districts across the county, and expanded programming at FAC's Sky Stage.

"We are deeply appreciative of this investment in the arts for Frederick County. This allocation will not only help artists recover, but will have a lasting impact," said Louise Kennelly, Executive Director of the Frederick Arts Council.

Save the Date: Ronnie Burrage & Holographic Principle at 5 E. 2nd Street

Grammy Nominee and international jazz performer Ronnie Burrage, with his band Holographic Principle, will be stopping at FAC's 5 E. 2nd Street Art Center on his April tour!

The concert is set for Thursday, April 21st at 7:30 pm.

"Burrage is considered to be a virtuoso, exceptionally skilled and regarded as one of the best in the business at his craft. He has toured all four continents from Siberia to South Africa to Japan. Ronnie is a well-respected educator whose biography is vibrant and dynamically diverse. He has graced stages with the who's who of jazz such as Wayne Shorter, Sonny Rollins, Pat Metheny, Jaco Pastorius, Frank Morgan, Wallace Roney, Jackie & Rene McLean, James Moody, Gary Bartz, Archie Shepp, Reggie Workman, Joe Zawinul, Cedar Walton, Wood Shaw, McCoy Tyner, and Pepper Adams. Throughout his illustrious career, he has been featured on over 100 recordings."

Academy of Fine Arts Call for Performing / Teaching Artists

The Academy of Fine Arts recently received ESSER funding to host an arts camp for students in grades 3-5 at TJ High from June 20th-June 23rd.

During this camp, students will rotate through music, dance, visual art, and theatre.

As part of their daily experience, AFA is looking for local professionals to come in and provide a thirty minute interactive and engaging presentation to campers in the auditorium. This could take the form of a performance, a group activity, or anything that will highlight a specific art form.

Presenters will receive a $500 honorarium.

The performance time would most likely fall between 11 and 12:00. There are openings for a total of four presentations to cover the days June 20th-23rd.

Interested artists / professionals should contact jonathan.kurtz@fcps.org or call 240-236-8352. Be prepared to provide a topic for the presentation and any specific performance needs.

Call to High School Artists: The Congressional Art Competition

Congressman David Trone is once again hosting the Congressional Art Competition for high school students in our area. Due to the pandemic, applications for this year's competition will only be accepted online.

The Congressional Art Competition is open to all high school students who live or attend a high school in the 6th Congressional District. If you're not sure if you live in the 6th District, you can look up your congressional district here. You can also call Rep. Trone's office at 301-926-0300 and provide your street address and zip code to a staff member who will be able to help you.

The winning artwork from our district's competition will be displayed for one year in the U.S. Capitol. The Capitol exhibit includes the winning artwork from all participating districts from around the country. The winning artwork is also featured on House.gov's Congressional Art Competition page.

The application deadline is Friday, April 22nd at 5 pm.

Creativity Grants for Projects

MSAC's Creativity Grants for Projects strengthen the vitality and sustainability of artists and small organizations and provide opportunities to serve the growing needs of relevant arts projects and collaborations within Maryland communities.

Intended to support specific arts projects, events, or programs, this option is available for independent artists, as well as organizations. Each application should focus on a proposal for one specific project or program.

All applications received on or before June 5, 2022 will be reviewed as an FY22 application. If approved, the application will be considered an FY22 grant. All applications received on or after June 6, 2022 will be reviewed as an FY23 application. If approved, the application will be considered an FY23 grant.

Egyptologist Digs Up Mystery Among the Pyramids.

Author: Elizabeth Peters

Genre: Archeological Mystery

"When one is striding bravely into the future one cannot watch one's footing." – Elizabeth Peters

Barbara Louise Mertz (1927 – 2013) was a Maryland author who wrote under her own name, as well as under the pseudonyms Elizabeth Peters and Barbara Michaels. She was born in Astoria, IL., grew up in Oak Park, IL., and attended Ernest Hemingway's high school. She became enchanted with Egypt as a teenager after her aunt took her to see the Oriental Institute at the University of Chicago. This attraction was her motivation to get a bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in Egyptology.

She wrote two scholarly books on ancient Egypt in the 1960s (both of which have been continuously in print since first publication), but was unable to find work in academia. When she turned to fiction, she discovered she was good at it and that readers enjoyed her brand of historical intrigue. Her trick was to weave the curiosities of ancient Egypt and archaeology into her stories. Dr. Mertz produced one success after another and became one of the most popular writers of her era and genres (Archeological Mystery and Suspense). She is famous for her Amelia Peabody series, a mystery/adventure series in which the heroine is an Egyptologist working in Egypt at all the famous archeological excavations. The series contains twenty books.

Elizabeth Peters had a strong work ethic and wrote with extraordinary speed. She once remarked that she had lost count of how many she'd written after she had published fifty novels. Washington Post writer Sarah Booth Conroy noted that Elizabeth Peter's novels were "the literary equivalent of multiple gin-and-tonics." They were "to be taken in times of self-indulgence, physical pain, or mental anguish because they came with a guarantee that evil will be punished, good will be rewarded, pleasingly plump women will seduce brilliant men with bulging muscles, and all will be set right in the world."

Dr. Mertz was married to Richard Mertz for 19 years and had two children (Peter and Elizabeth) from which she took her pen name. Dr. Mertz died at her home in Frederick, Maryland at age 85.

Genre: Archeological Mystery – An early version of the techno-thriller, this genre sets mysteries in archeological settings and allows the author to sprinkle highly detailed descriptions of excavations and the archeological process into the story.

Sample Reading List: Nonfiction - Temples, Tombs, and Hieroglyphs: A Popular History of Ancient Egypt; Red Land, Black Land: Daily Life in Ancient Egypt. Fiction - Amelia Peabody Series, The Vickie Bliss Mysteries, Jacqueline Kirby Series.

Light in the Darkness Janet Seifert

Most of the paintings in this exhibit were created during the 2020 pandemic. My concept was to create images using luminous light as a metaphor for the hope, strength and resilience needed to shine through such a dark time in our lives.

Using the Renaissance painting technique known as "chiaroscuro," forms are defined by diffused but radiant light from the depths of the background. The illumination emanates from an unseen mysterious source, creating an ethereal, otherworldly quality and revealing images that are seemingly discernible yet not quite definable.

The idea for the paintings first evolved while experimenting with digital, closeup snapshots of tiny holiday lights and sunlit-infused objects. Using the photos as inspiration and a point of departure, I refined them into painted images. My hope was to create serene, luminous moments frozen in time.

MARIE RICCIO'S oil paintings invite you into a quiet space of subtle color adjacent to bold color choices. In this series, she became intrigued by the properties of tissue paper. Despite its translucent nature, these papers obscure other elements, often with an unexpected visual weight. Throughout the series, tissue papers are a common thread, guiding the work as they obscure and reveal.

Third Thursday Artists' Talk: April 21, 7pm

Regardless of your position on guns and gun ownership, it's hard to ignore this fact: our country is awash in guns. Estimates show there are many more millions of guns than there are citizens... close to 400 million firearms vs. 330 million people, a number that does not include weapons owned by law enforcement agencies, the federal government or the military. The overwhelming reason for purchasing a gun is for self-protection. But gun deaths in the U.S. outpace those of any other developed country, casting doubt on the argument that guns provide protection.

Jim Roberts' solo show, under the influence, is an installation of work that looks at America's gun culture and how it has affected our society.
