FAC Leads Community Field Trip to Artist Studio & Maker Spaces

FAC recently led a community field trip to visit two exemplary artist and maker spaces in Bethesda and Rockville. FAC and members of the community visited Artists and Makers Spaces in Bethesda, which offers 33 individual studio spaces as well as communal amenities for artists, and VisArts in Rockville, which offers classroom, exhibition/gallery, and studio space. The field trip grew out of community discussions around creating a similar maker space in Frederick.

The field trip also included a stop at Pike & Rose, a mixed-use development that has received recognition for its incorporation of public art and placemaking features.
FAC Executive Director Louise Kennelly recently presented on FAC's mission and activities at the Key City Rotary Club. Art was a highlight of the meeting, with a club presentation preceding Kennelly's on the development and meaning behind William Cochran's "Community Bridge" on Carroll Creek. Key City Rotary donated a lap desk to an African school in honor of the Arts Council's work through the TutuDesk program.

Mid Atlantic Public Art Meetup

FAC recently attended an in-person meetup of the Mid-Atlantic Public Art Managers group, hosted by public art administrators and the local arts agency of Prince George's County. The meetup also featured public art-related updates from Americans for the Arts and a tour of the stunning local art collection at MGM National Harbor. We look forward to further engagement with this group in inspiring creative ideas and growth!
Rescheduled: Fransisco Loza Artist Workshop Now
November 5 & 6

Originally from Mexico, Francisco LOZA creates Arte de Estambre, or Pressed Yarn Art, by working on wooden surfaces that he covers in a combination of waxes that he mixes together to use as an adhesive base. Onto these waxed bases, LOZA intricately presses, cuts, and shapes yarn into his original artwork of multiple colors, sizes, depths, and concepts.

To learn more about Francisco LOZA and his unique process, visit www.LozaArt.com.

Consenses Walks Opening Night

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18TH 7:30PM

Art Walk through the Fan featuring local artists.
Starting point: Mural at the Corner of Lombardy and Main

Opening night of Consenses Walks:
Live music by Deau Eyes.
Free ice cream at Scoop
Local Artwork
Refreshments on Monument Ave.

Consenses Walks can be described as an artistic game of telephone. This interpretive chain of artwork started with a mural, inspired a song, which was interpreted into an ice cream flavor, which was translated into a photograph, which inspired a poem, and lastly the poem was given to a sculptor. Come see new work from local artists, Deau Eyes, Dusty Ray, Jody Pozen, Riley Goodman, Addie Elades, and Morgan Gilbreath.

"Lord, help my poor soul." – Last words of Edgar Allan Poe

Edgar Allan Poe was born January 19, 1809, in Boston, Massachusetts and, after a tumultuous and personally disappointing life, died October 7, 1849 in a Baltimore, Maryland hospital after being found in a gutter, both drunk and barely conscious, and wearing someone else's clothing.

Poe’s life was full of abandonment. His parents died or left before he was three, he was separated from his siblings for a foster family, his foster father frequently abandoned the family for affairs, and his foster mother (whom he got on well with) died when he was 19. His foster father cut him out of his will and then died when Poe was 25, orphaning him again. His fiance broke their engagement and when he finally married his 13 year old cousin, she made him a widower 11 years later. Poe died a year after that. His sad life probably set the tone for his writing as all of Poe’s stories take place at night, or on the “bleakest, foulest” day of the year.

Most consider Poe to be the inventor of the American horror story, science fiction, and the detective story. His The Tell-Tale Heart, Masque of the Red Death, The Black Cat, and The Pit and the Pendulum have set the tone for all subsequent American horror writers. His The Murders in the Rue Morgue (1841), The Mystery of Marie Rogêt (1942), and The Purloined Letter (1843) are detective story thrillers whose main character Arthur Conan Doyle cited as the inspiration for creating Sherlock Holmes.

He didn’t receive any money for The Raven, his most famous poem, which he had originally titled, To Lenore. However, at a meal with Charles Dickens they discussed Dickens’ pet raven who had died. Poe rewrote the poem with a raven as the central figure.

Every year on the date of his birthday, a mystery man leaves a bottle of cognac and roses on Poe’s grave in Baltimore, MD.

DISTRICT Arts
Contemporary Art in the Historic District
“Food for Thought”
A Themed Exhibition with Works by 25 Artists

DISTRICT Arts, a contemporary art gallery located in the historic district of downtown Frederick, MD, is pleased to present “FOOD FOR THOUGHT.”

This metaphorical expression connotes something that should be pondered or carefully considered. The art of René Magritte immediately comes to mind but so too does A. Wyeth’s “Christina’s World.”

We invited working artists in The United States to submit their original 2D or 3D works that challenge the viewer and gives them something to think about. The works of 25 artists were selected by the juror for exhibition.

On view October 5 - October 30, 2022

“Food for Thought” was independently juried by Dana Hargrove. Originally from Edinburgh, Scotland but now living in Florida, Dana describes herself as a “conceptually based artist, moving freely between mediums, using painting as a familiar touchstone, yet often incorporating sculpture, video, and photography.”

Hargrove received a BFA degree with honors in painting from Duncan of Jordanstone College of Art at Dundee University in Dundee, Scotland. Subsequently, she earned an MFA at Southern Illinois University.

Dana Hargrove is a Full Professor of Studio Art at Rollins College in Winter Park, FL. She is represented by Bridgette Mayer Gallery in Philadelphia, PA and by Dean Day Gallery in Houston, TX. She has won numerous awards and has exhibited in both featured and group artist shows throughout the country.

Homer Yost. Drawings and Drypoints

"There is a magic to the printmaking process, but it all starts with the drawing. If you don’t have a good drawing you won’t make a good print" ~Homer Yost

On view October 1 - 30th at Gallery 322

About The Event: Homer Yost has been sculpting and drawing for forty-five years. Nine months ago, he started making drypoint.

“I like the procedure of drawing on the plate, inking and wiping, and running the plate through the press... There is a magic to the printmaking process, but it all starts with the drawing. If you don’t have a good drawing you won’t make a good print.”

September 30 – October 30, 2022
Opening Reception: Saturday Oct 1 • 5-9 pm
Artists’ Talk: Thursday, Oct 20 • 7-8 pm

“Between Ideas and Reality” is illustrative of the process of art making. I began the spring with set ideas of what I wanted to accomplish and after two months the reality of my failed efforts made me reconsider the direction I was going. The works in the show now reflect taking shelter in the known.
