Art in the Park Recap

Thank you to everyone who came out to FAC's Art in the Park with the Frederick Keys on Friday, September 2nd! The jerseys designed by artist Bill Watson were a big hit and we loved watching plein air artist Mark Adler paint during the game. Dozens of baseballs - decorated by the players - were auctioned off. Thank you Alderwoman Donna Kuzemchak for your opening remarks. We had a wonderful night celebrating art and baseball!

Hood College Drawing Students Visit FAC Art Center

Students from Hood College's ARTS 324: Drawing III and ARTS 344: Drawing IV visited the FAC Art Center to learn about the current exhibit Unstructured Rise by artist Alyssa Imes and practice plein air painting.

The Frederick Arts Council is excited to open the doors of the FAC Art Center from 10 AM-10 PM the weekend of September 23-25 to serve as HOME BASE for the 72-hour film festival.

If you are participating in the 72 Film Fest and you are running low on locations to film, places to edit, somewhere with free and stable wifi, or even just needing to take a break and relax, come to HOME BASE!

Once your film is done you can submit it online or drop off a physical copy at HOME BASE Sunday the 25th 6:00-9:00 PM.

More information on the 72-hour film festival can be found at 72fest.com

Maryland Humanities One Maryland One Book Author Tour, featuring Naima Coster

Frederick Community College on October 3, 2022

What's Mine and Yours is a multigenerational saga featuring two North Carolina families. They collide in ways that neither is prepared for when Black students from the east side of the county are integrated into the predominantly white schools on the west side. Readers will follow these families over decades as they break apart and come back together.

All tour events are free. No registration is required. Seating is available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Join aspiring, emerging, and established writers at the Maryland Writers' Association's (MWA) Annual Brain to Bookshelf Conference. At MWA, we're dedicated to the art, business, and craft of writing, and this exciting in-person conference has it all:

- Keynote craft workshops by award-winning New York Times best-seller Maria V. Snyder, followed by a variety of daily speakers and workshops.
- Literary agents and small press editors will hear pitches, critique work, and offer their insights during a panel discussion.
- Lunch networking opportunity with fellow attendees and industry professionals.
- Bookstore - buy presenter titles, plus sell your latest book, raffle and much more.

Call for Artists: Fanciful Picnic Tables at Sandy Spring Museum

Serving as a gathering place for the community, Sandy Spring Museum is installing a series of picnic groves with fanciful picnic tables, most of which will be designed by Maryland artists. The Museum is seeking innovative and artistic proposals that intelligently interpret the acts of gathering, relaxing, and dining in a welcoming setting from artists who would like to be selected to design and build a table. Current plans are to build several tables each year for the next several years.

Anyone living within Maryland can apply, including amateur and professional artists, as individuals or as a group.

Deadline is rolling and applications will be reviewed as received.

For more information and to apply, visit <https://www.sandyspringmuseum.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/07/Call-for-Artists-2022.pdf>.

NOTABLE AUTHOR: MADISON SMARTT BELL

“Writing is daydreaming with a pen in my hand.” – Madison Smartt Bell

Madison Smartt Bell (born August 1, 1957, in Nashville, Tennessee) is an American novelist who upon receiving his BA from Princeton (79) and his MA in English and Creative Writing from Hollins College (81) began teaching creative writing. He taught for the Iowa Writers' Workshop and the Johns Hopkins University Writing Seminars. In 1984, he joined Goucher College becoming a Professor of English and then Director of the Kratz Center for Creative Writing (1999-2008). In 2008, he received the Strauss Living Award from the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Bell is described as a “southern writer” both by “inheritance and in his love for language, emphasis on storytelling, fondness for eccentric characters, and sense of the mysterious power of place.” His work has earned respectful critical attention and high praise for its energy and artistry. He is particularly known for All Souls' Rising, Master of the Crossroads, and The Stone That the Builder Refused, novels that focus on Toussaint Louverture and the Haitian Revolution. After reading them you will describe Bell as “...imaginative, brilliant, and compassionate...”

He received the Lillian Smith Award, Guggenheim and National Endowment for the Arts fellowships, and was a finalist for the National Book Award and the PEN/Faulkner Award. In 1996, Granta magazine called him one of “the best American novelists under 40”. Bell's books have been translated into eight languages. He is also a literary journalist and contributes to The New York Times, The Nation, The New York Review of Books, and The Boston Globe,

Bell is married to the poet, Elizabeth Spires, and they have one daughter.
