Join the FAC in Calling for American Rescue Plan Funding for the Arts

We are calling for American Rescue Plan monies -- of which up to $95 million are expected to come to Frederick County and Municipalities in the next 3-24 months -- to go in part toward a significant boost to the arts. Now is the time to think big about how to sustain the arts so that this funding has a legacy impact for our community.

Upcoming Artist Talk with Christian Benefiel, interviewed by FNP journalist Lauren LaRocca

Saturday, April 17th, 1 pm
Facebook Live

Join us for a live-streamed artist talk with FAC Gallery featured artist Christian Benefiel, interviewed by FNP journalist Lauren LaRocca.

Benefiel currently has an installation on view at the 11 W Patrick Street FAC Gallery entitled, "Trying to make Aurica without Breaking Pangea." Benefiel's work explores interconnected constructions of elements that rely on each other, rather than glue or nails, for cohesion. The shapes and systems he creates reflect the nature of domestic relationships, cultural norms, as well as the vast hidden systems of global and universal forces that influence us all.

MSAC Announces 2021 Independent Artist Award Winners

MSAC announced that $266,000 has been awarded to 66 Maryland artists through the 2021 Independent Artist Awards (IAA). With this year's awards focused on visual and media arts, 2021 awardees represent a wide range of artistic talents from all across the state, from painting, ceramics, and works on paper to digital media, film, and installation.

Among the winners was Thomas Faison, who presented his 2019 exhibit "Phase Change" at FAC's 11 W Patrick Street Gallery.

"As Maryland continues to recover from the global pandemic, it is important to recognize just how important a role the arts play in our lives," said First Lady Yumi Hogan. "As we look to brighter days ahead, we know the arts community will be there to help us reflect, heal, and celebrate. All the artists in Maryland contribute to this creative ecosystem. I want to congratulate all the awardees for their incredible contributions to the arts and our communities."

State of Maryland Announces 2021 Heritage Award Winners

Maryland Traditions, the traditional arts program of MSAC, has announced the winners of its 2021 Heritage Awards, which recognize long-term achievement in the traditional arts. Three Heritage Awards are given annually: one each in the categories of Person or People, Place, and Tradition. Each award comes with a $5,000 grant. This year's winners are:

Person or People: Phil Wiggins of Montgomery County is a master harmonica player in the tradition of the Piedmont blues, a delicate, lyrical style of blues originating in Black communities in the eastern United States in the 1920s and 1930s. Phil has taught thousands to both play and value the Piedmont blues and is the recipient of many awards, including the National Endowment for the Arts' National Heritage Fellowship, the nation's highest honor in the folk and traditional arts.

Place: The historic Dentzel carousel has been a fixture in Montgomery County's Glen Echo Park since 1921. Crafted by the Dentzel Carousel Company, the amusement has for 100 years served as the site of community gathering, including a 1960 civil rights protest to open the park to Black visitors. The desegregation effort was ultimately successful, and the carousel has remained the centerpiece of the park and a cherished attraction for all guests.

Tradition: Arabbing is the name for the Baltimore City tradition of selling fruits and vegetables by horse-drawn cart. Those practicing the tradition, known as arabbers, alert their customers to the availability of fresh food through unique hollers. For 150 years, arabbing has been recognized as a tradition primarily upheld by and for Baltimore's Black communities, as well as an entrepreneurial economic system serving neighborhoods across the city.

"The Maryland State Arts Council's Heritage Awards highlight what's best of Maryland's folklife and community-based cultural traditions," said Maryland Department of Commerce Secretary Kelly M. Schulz. "The award recipients have shown significant and long-term achievement, and help tell the world about Maryland's great heritage."

Update: Claire McCardell Project

The Frederick Art Club's larger-than-life sculpture of iconic fashion designer Claire McCardell is progressing beautifully. In February, after months of work, sculptor Sarah Hempel Irani made a few minor tweaks to the full-size clay version of Claire at the Project Steering Committee's suggestions.

Then Claire was carefully transported, in sections, to the mold-maker in Baltimore, where the reassembled statue is being cast into a plaster mold from which it will be removed when the plaster has dried. Next, the mold will travel cross-country to the Colorado foundry where it will be cast in bronze.

We'll welcome Claire home to Frederick in September. Her bronze image will then be displayed on an inscribed granite pedestal at the eastern end of Carroll Creek Linear Park within view of the former Union Knitting Mills building.

The plan is to unveil the sculpture in October 2021 with a gala celebration. Following that, the Frederick Art Club will present the statue to the City of Frederick.

Author: Gary Jobson

Genre: Sportswriter - Sailing

"Every sailor is doing something important at every moment. There is no letup." – Gary Jobson

Gary Jobson was born (1950) and raised in Toms River, New Jersey, where he excelled in two things; sailing where he was crowned Barnegat Bay's #1 sailor at age 16 and writing where he became editor of the Toms River High School Paper. He continued both passions at the State University of New York (SUNY) Maritime College where he won the Men's Singlehanded National Championship in 1972 and 1973 and was editor of the college's newspaper. His adult life has continued his excellence at these two passions. In 1977, he won the America's Cup as tactician for Ted Turner in Courageous and his catalogue of books lists 21 with four more under contract. Jobson also continued his studies by attending Graduate School at CW Post College (Political Science) and receiving a Doctor of Letters from the State University of New York and a Doctor of Humane Letters by Lakeland College.

Jobson started his career as a sailing coach at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, and later at the U.S. Naval Academy. Since then, Jobson has authored 21 books on sailing, narrated or produced 1,200 television programs and films, has given over 2,800 lectures, and has competed in 5,700 races. His articles appear regularly in Sailing World magazine, Cruising World magazine, and What's Up Annapolis. Jobson is currently Chair of the Board of Trustees of Luminis Health and Chair of the Chesapeake Bay Trust. He is Chair of Visit Annapolis & Anne Arundel County. Jobson spent 31 years with ESPN covering nine America's Cup events and producing many documentaries. He has covered seven Olympics (including the upcoming Tokyo 2021 Olympics) and an America's Cup for NBC. For his work in television, Jobson has been presented with two Emmys, four Tellys and an ACE Award.

For many years, Jobson has been actively involved with education, environmental issues and healthcare. From 1993-2017, he served as Chair of the Leukemia Cup Regatta Series, which has raised over $60 million. Jobson spent 15 years on the Board of Blue Cross Blue Shield of Virginia.
